An
introvert's
collection
of
photos,
memories
and ramblings.

Welcome to the first issue of DUMB.

This
is
a
collection
photos
snapped
on my cellphone
mixed
with ramblings
and
memories
from
my life.

I've

published

for

30

years

but

is

my

first

attempt

at

perzine.

(1993-NOW)

Remains of the Belle Promenade Mall.
Marrero, Louisiana
1983-2000

I spent most of my teens here.

Belle Promenade memories.

From average West Bank kid hanging in the arcade and the toy stores to music-obsessed metalhead.

Spending hours every Saturday looking through every cassette and record at Camelot Music and Sound Shop.

Checking out all the cool/odd/taboo stuff in Spencer Gifts.

Hanging in the food court with friends.

First crush.

First rejection.

First date.

First kiss.

Unintentionally setting a trash can on fire with a cigarette butt that wasn't entirely put out.

Walking around with a boom box blaring Iron Maiden and being told to turn it off by the mall cops.

I'd
seen
this
truck
around
Marrero
years.

He
has
new
truck
now,

but
with
less
Atheist
propaganda.

On Sundays during football season I put on a mask and curse a lot and get near blackout drunk for the entertainment of my Facebook cult.

WHO DAT!

Thanks
for picking
up
and
reading
my
'zine.
